OVERVIEW

Leadership plays a vital role in the healthcare industry. Motivated employees can make all the difference to the effective management of hospitals but also have a large impact on a patient’s experience during their treatment in a hospital and ultimately on the result of that treatment.

Leadership is a crucial skill that healthcare professionals must constantly develop and fine tune to ensure that employees are motivated, healthcare processes are effective and patient care is of the highest standard. This course focuses on the development of leadership skills that create effective and highly motivated work environments that employees can thrive in, so that health care is optimal for the patient.

FACULTY

Liam Ulvhag is a strategic consultant who has specialized in assisting businesses in the practical development and implementation of their business and HR strategies.

He is a consultant that enjoys challenging his clients and has an impressive track record of facilitating change and organisational improvement.

Liam Ulvhag is the founder and Managing Director of Consultatum AB a Stockholm based consulting company with a unique focus on aligning a client’s HR-function and business strategy. By developing their client’s HR-strategy, HR-function and the link between the HR-function and line managers, Consultatum AB helps clients achieve better business results. Liam founded Consultatum in December 2007 after working as the Managing Director of Hay Group. He previously held positions as Senior Consultant at both Watson Wyatt and Price Waterhouse Coopers. Liam has extensive experience of working with major global clients from a range of business sectors across Europe, North America, Asia and South Africa in the following areas of expertise:

1. Leadership development including individual and team coaching
2. Strategic HR-Planning and Development
3. HR-transformation
4. HR-metrics

Specific projects include:

- EuroMaint: HR-transformation project
- SVT: HR-transformation project
- CSN: development of the HR-strategy
- Volvo Car Corporation: Developing and delivering an HR Business Partner programme
- Fortum: Development of the HR link function and facilitation of the yearly HR conference
- Pfizer: Facilitating the development of a new HR strategy including facilitating the HR team to develop the HR organisation
- Astra Zeneca Oy: Leadership Team development programme
- AB Volvo: Designing and implementing a programme for line managers in HR strategy to improve interaction between line managers and HR partners in a global manufacturing company.

Other experience
Liam is the editor of two of Bonniers’ Leadership Hand Books; Strategic Human Resource Management and Personnel Handbook. He also writes for Bonniers Leadership Handbook. Liam is a popular facilitator and speaker and has spoken at both the Stockholm School of Economics and Stockholm University about Human Resource Management and Leadership Development.