The Stockholm School of Economics in Riga (SSE Riga) is an international higher educational institution with students mainly from Estonia, Latvia, and Lithuania as well as from Eastern Europe. The bachelor programme combines education in economics and business administration with a high level of practical experience.

Our graduates build successful careers in a wide range of sectors including finance, banking, real estate, auditing and consulting, IT and telecommunications, advertising and media, government, manufacturing and construction, and education and research.

A number of graduates become entrepreneurs: some of them practise entrepreneurship as students while others join the corporate world first and then start their own business. Many graduates earn a master’s degree either right after graduating from the SSE Riga or within 5-10 years.
